Building and Construction Trades Council of South Central Wisconsin Announces Madison Common Council Endorsements

The endorsement for the Madison Common Council of the Building Trades Council of South Central Wisconsin and the Greater Madison Chamber of Commerce align. Both organizations support candidates focused on jobs and economic growth.

The Building and Construction Trades Council of South Central Wisconsin announced its endorsements for Madison Common Council today. Building Trades Council Executive Director Dave Branson said “The Building Trades Council of South Central Wisconsin is excited to endorse these candidates for the Common Council. The Building Trades endorsed these candidates because of their commitment to promote economic development in Madison.”

The Building Trades Council has endorsed the following Common Council Candidates:

District 1: Barbara Harrington McKinney

District 2: Ledell Zellers

District 3: Amanda Hall

District 5: Shiva Bidar-Sielaff

District 7: Steve King

District 8: Zach Wood

District 9: Paul Skidmore

District 10: Maurice Cheeks

District 11: Arvina Martin

District 12: Larry Palm

District 13: Sara Eskrich

District 14: Sheri Carter

District 19: Mark Clear

District 20: Matt Phair

Branson said “The Building Trades Council feels it is important to elect candidates that are committed to economic development in the City of Madison. The city is developing and growing and we want to elect Common Council members who will promote the growth and development.”

The endorsements of the candidates line up with the endorsements of the Greater Madison Chamber of Commerce just as they have in the last two Common Council elections. The only differences are the Building Trades endorsed Ledell Zellers and the Chamber endorsed Denise DeMarb. The Greater Madison Chamber of Commerce press release regarding their endorsements is attached.

The Building and Construction Trades Council of South Central Wisconsin is made up of 17 International Building Trades Unions. The Building Trades represents over 4,000 members who live and work in the greater Madison area. Our Building Trades members work for contractors that utilize the skilled labor pool available through our local union affiliates.
