Madison College announces new appointments to Board of Trustees

MADISON, Wisconsin (May 14, 2014)—Two long-time board members and two new community members have been approved by the Wisconsin Technical College System to fill four open positions on Madison College’s District Board of Trustees.

Madison Area Technical College is operated under the direction of the Madison College District Board, which consists of nine members: two employers, two employees, three members-at-large, an elected official and a school district administrator.

Frances Huntley-Cooper, Fitchburg, and Joel Winn, Fort Atkinson, will begin their terms as at-large members in July. Huntley-Cooper, a retired administrator with the Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development, served on the college’s Board of Trustees in 2007 - 2013, during which time she was an employer member and held the positions of vice-chair and chairperson. Winn, retired executive director of the Fort Memorial Hospital Foundation, has been an at-large member since 2008, serving as board secretary and currently as board treasurer.

Kelly Crombie and Randy Guttenberg are first-term board members. Crombie, the mayor of Columbus and attorney-owner of Crombie Law Office, will serve the board in the capacity of elected official. Guttenberg is the superintendent of the Waunakee Community School District and will fill the board seat dedicated to the school district administrator.

Huntley-Cooper, Winn and Crombie will complete three-year terms that begin July 1, 2014 and end June 30, 2017. Guttenberg will complete the remainder of a three-year term that begins on July 1, 2014 and ends on June 30, 2015. This vacancy was created due to the resignation of Jon Bales, executive director of the Wisconsin Association of School District Administrators.

The Madison College District Board is the official link between the College and the communities it serves, and is responsible for determining and assuring appropriate organizational performance, enacting policies on governance issues and executive limitations, monitoring college effectiveness, and assessing the performance of the college president.
